SATURDAY, JUNE 9, 1888.

The indications for twenty-four hours, commencing at 3 p. m. to-day, for Missouri are: Fresh to brisk northerly winds; cool; local rains, followed by fair weather. The conditions are favorable for severe local storms.

St. Louis will do as well by the Saengerfest as it did by the Democratic Convention.

Now that the applause is finished it is time to remark that the campaign will not be a walk-over.

It is announced that one of the leading manufacturers of this city is to be removed to Pittsburgh on account of freight discriminations against St. Louis.

There will be various attempts at Sunday newspapers offered to the people of St. Louis to-morrow, but the only genuine Sunday newspaper will be the SUNDAY POST-DISPATCH.

JOHN SHERMAN's friends now claim that he is a poor man. If this is the case he might just as well step down out. The Republican party wants a good-sized bar in this campaign.

The Republican victory in Oregon is the answer of the land-grabbers to the Democratic claim of having restored one hundred million acres of the public domain to the owners thereof.

In ascribing the Republican gain in Oregon to the tariff issue the organs find it convenient to ignore altogether the President's veto of the big Columbia River improvement grab, which made a much bigger noise in the Oregon contest than the tariff issue.

The correspondents of the Chicago and Cincinnati papers were the only ones that found fault with the hospitality of St. Louis. They wrote as if they were sent here to abuse and belittle everything appertaining to St. Louis, and apparently they did their best in obedience to orders.

The testimony taken at Baltimore by the Senate Committee shows that the Administration is enforcing civil-service reform in spots, and that Baltimore is not one of these spots. These little incidents add weight of lead to the feet of the Star-eyed Goddess of Reform in her race against the nimble Republican spoliars.

The main question pending in Oregon was the re-election of Senator Dolph, the Northern Pacific Railroad's attorney in the Senate. The N. P. is fighting for the unearned portion of its huge land grant. A bill to declare its forfeiture was passed by the Democratic House of the last Congress, but is still obstructed in the Republican Senate.

While Senator GORMAN was in St. Louis framing a civil service reform plank broad enough to cover raffles for the Widow McGuinness' pig, his billiard was invaded by the Senate's Civil Service Committee. The first haul of the rake in Baltimore brought up one of GORMAN's men, JOHN QUINN, with a nice little interest in the pork lottery. Mr. QUINN receives $1,200 a year as clerk to the Government Steamboat Inspector, but admitted that he was not scholar enough to fill a permit blank in the presence of the committee. He explained that a young son did the work for his victuals and clothes, while QUINN, pere, drew the salary and attended to the real estate business.

THE GAMES THEY PLAY ON US.

The fisheries treaty may be postponed by the Senate for a political object till after the presidential election without damage to our fishing interests, because by agreement they are accorded all the benefits of the treaty pending its ratification. But the Western people must not be permitted to misunderstand the howl which will be raised in the meantime for a coercive policy of non-intercourse with Canada.

It will have the same object in view as the howl against permitting Canadian railroads to compete with our railroad pools for East and West traffic. It will be altogether in the interest of certain greedy monopolists that want more "protection," and the aim of it will be as much against the public interest as would a law forbidding the shipment of American grain, cotton or other products in any but American built ships owned by a pool of American stock companies.

The Eastern mill owners have tried to compel the railroads to carry their goods at lower rates than is charged on the output of the new cotton and iron mills down South. Attempts have been made to induce the Interstate Commerce Commission to discriminate in favor of particular States and sections in fixing railroad rates, and especially those affecting direct imports and exports between the Western and Southern States and foreign countries. This would simply make of railroad rates a protective tariff to benefit certain sections at the expense of others.

The old Eastern and Middle States, with their accumulations of capital, their control of the whole trade of the Union, their mortgages on the property in the West and South, are in a position to monopolize all the benefits of trade restriction by internal or external tariffs, and have profited so much thereby at the expense of others that they should not be permitted to devise some new advantage out of every international complication that arises. They are always on the lookout for such "snaps," however, and generally work them for all they are worth.

In his Paris letter announcing that he could not accept the Republican nomination if tendered to him Mr. BLAINE declares the issue of protection "incalculably greater and stronger than any man," and adds:

Were it possible for every voter of the Republic to see for himself the condition and recompense of labor in Europe, the party of free trade in the United States would not receive the support of one wage-worker between the two oceans.

"The condition and recompense of labor in Europe" is not the result of free trade, because there never has been free trade in Europe. Every nation there is fenced in with custom-houses and protective duties. No such area as that of the United States enjoys in Europe the blessing of a free exchange of products, and nowhere among the protected nations of Europe are wages as high as in free trade England. Yet knowing this as well as anybody, Mr. BLAINE attributes the low wages of protected Europe to free trade, and the high wages guaranteed by our immense area of free trade in this country he coolly credits to a tariff which protects trusts and monopolies, but does not protect the laborer.

WOMEN OF THE WORLD.

Mrs. MAUD HOWE ELLIOT has completed her novel for Lippincott's Magazine; it is called "Mammon."

Mrs. JEANNE HUGO, the granddaughter of Victor Hugo, who has been seriously ill, is recovering her health.

Mrs. AUGUSTA EVANS WILSON, the novelist, has a general collection that some bibliasts pronounce the finest in the world.

LOUIS MICHEL has written a play called the "Red Cook," which she recently read for the benefit of the accused Anarchists in Lyons.

Mrs. RUTHERFORD B. HAYES is to preside over a meeting of the Woman's Home Missionary Society of the Methodist Church in New York.

The four leading female colleges in the United States are: Wellesley, for students; Vassar, for Smith, with 367, and Bryn-Mawr, with 73.

FRANCIS CLEVELAND EDWARDS, the first baby born at Thermoito, Cal., is now 10 days old. The town authorities have presented her with a corner lot.

Mrs. ALBERT recently sung "Home, Sweet Home" at the inauguration of the exhibition for the benefit of the London Home for Incurables in such a way that a lady present asked her check for $5,000 for the charity.

RUSSELL A. ALGER's wife has a prejudice against politics. She is warmly interested in her husband's success in whatever he undertakes, but she cannot look with contentment upon the publicity which a presidential campaign compels a candidate's home life to undergo.

A MONTREAL lady ordered a cloak from a tailor and refused to pay for it on the ground of mist. The tailor has brought suit to recover the price of the cloak and claims that it did not until the lady put on an immense bustle. The court will have to decide the regulation size of a bustle.

The Great French Physician, Dujardin Reumets, adopts champagne as the proper stimulant in nervous prostration. American scientists pronounce the vintage "Mumm's Extra Dry," as the model of purity and consciousness say it is the finest in years.

As Good as a Dollar Tip.

When the pompous porter of the palace car appeared on the scene the little girl exclaimed: "I don't know Mr. Pullman was a colored man!"

FRIENDS IN NEED.

LANCASTER'S ASSOCIATES RALLYING IN HIS DEFENSE IN COURT.

John O'Day Tells the Jury that the Plaintiff's Political Character is Above Suspicion and Compares Him to Gen. Grant in an Effort to Throw Light on the Cause of the "Candidate's" Assessments—Graham Frost and His Deposition—Lancaster Himself Takes the Stand.

In view of the impossibility of concluding the Lancaster-Glover $100,000 damage suit to-day, Judge Valliant was considered enough to permit the absence of the jury until 10 o'clock this morning—an hour later than usual—that the jury should stand by the citizenship might give a fleeting attention to the private business matters they have been forced to neglect for three weeks.

The first quarter of the forenoon hour, however, had elapsed before proceedings were begun, in the consciousness that the day would be necessary for evidence and that some time must elapse before the lawyers would be ready to make their closing addresses.

SAMUEL KEARNEY was the first witness examined in rebuttal by Mr. Laughlin. He thought he knew the defendant's general reputation for honesty, and that it was good. On cross-examination he admitted having read Lancaster's political reputation attacked during the past few years, and was then excused.

JAS. O. BROADBENT, the next witness, said he had been a member of the Board of Freeholders that had framed the Sejm and Charter of the City of St. Louis, and that he had been a member of the board. The witness had known R. D. Lancaster for twenty years and considered his reputation good.

"Do you know the general reputation of John A. Glover for honesty and integrity as a practitioner before the St. Louis bar?" queried Mr. Laughlin.

Mr. Ellis: "I suppose that is intended as a joke, the question is so manifestly incoherent."

Mr. Laughlin: "It is not intended as a joke at all. The objection to the inquiry was sustained, and Col. Broadbent has been cross-examined by Mr. Dyer. He knew nothing of the defendant's reputation for honesty and integrity."

Mr. Dyer: "The witness has been cross-examined by Mr. Dyer. He knew nothing of the defendant's reputation for honesty and integrity."

THE BAKERS' STRIKE.

Matters in Status Quo To-Day—Mass-Meeting To-Morrow.

There is very little change in the bakers' strike to-day. The bakers are standing by their resolutions and the bosses by theirs. There were about fifty more men added to the gathering at the rooms, No. 1107 Clark avenue, some of them being strikers and others non-members of the union. The bakers are very much incensed at the name given them by the baker bosses. They claim that they have sent men to the bakers to sign the contract and told them that they were right in their demands, and that if they stood shoulder to shoulder they would eventually break down all opposition. Nine new names were added to the list of those who have signed the contract presented by the journeymen, making the total twenty-two. The removal of telephones still goes merrily on. It is one of the oddities of the situation that telephone users are continually calling for subscribers who have lost their instruments. There never were so many demands for the Exposition telephone, the exchange girls say, as there have been during yesterday and to-day. The Mercantile Club telephone has also been in great demand, and persons who have interest on the river had been removed to the Mercantile Club telephone.
